References

Most articles require some references, and some contain incidental information best treated as notes. Use bracketed numbers for references, with a corresponding list at the end of the article. These should be numbered in the order they appear in the article, not alphabetically. Organize references in the following format:

Journal Article

Technical Report

Book

Website